

Unmasking Nature: StimDex - An interactive talk on the 'Stim-ability' of Irish Biodiversity

Know Before You Go

Beta Festival, 7 Nov 2026, 11:00-12:30

StimDex Tour

	A talk exploring the StimDex and the ‘Stim-ability’ of Irish Biodiversity Friday 7 November 11:00 - 12:30
	The tour will take place in the Unmasking Nature exhibition. This is at the Bank Arts Centre on Thomas Street.
	The StimDex is an index of foraged natural materials. They have been chosen for their “stimibility” - how they look, feel, smell and more!
	The StimDex celebrates Biodiversity and Neurodiversity using Biophilia. Biophilia is about how we are drawn to and connect with nature.

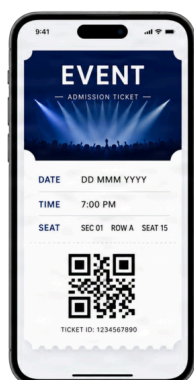

Neurodiversity recognises and values the many different ways people experience the world around them.

The StimDex celebrates difference.

The tour is led by experts Eóin O'Raghallaigh & Melissa O'Brien.

The tour is free but you should book a place.

Booking link

There will be ISL interpretation of the tour.

This is a Relaxed Event you can leave whenever you need to, or take breaks.

If you need Audio Description assistance you can tell us this when you book your place.

If there is anything else we can do to make this tour more accessible for you, you can tell us when you book your place.

For questions you can contact studio@alanjamesburns.com